

2007 BYRON BAY WRITERS FESTIVAL

Festival Writer: Deborah Hope

Deborah Hope is The Australian's new literary editor. Deborah is also the deputy editor of the newspaper's Review section, is a regular columnist and has held many other senior posts at The Australian. They include founding editor of The Weekend Australian's Editor section – a weekly review of international affairs, commentator and senior writer.

In a journalism career spanning nearly three decades, Deborah has been a political reporter, a union reporter, a biotechnology reporter, a foreign correspondent and a commentator on national affairs and social change. For three years she was the pseudonymous author of "The Group", a popular column documenting the fictionalised fortunes of a book club published in The Australian's monthly literary review.

the festival for thinkers