

2007 BYRON BAY WRITERS FESTIVAL

Festival Writer: Antony Loewenstein

Antony Loewenstein is a Sydney-based freelance journalist, author and blogger. He has written for the Sydney Morning Herald, The Australian, The Guardian, Washington Post, Sydney's Sun-Herald, Melbourne's Age, Brisbane's Courier Mail, Adelaide's Advertiser, The Bulletin, Znet, The Big Issue, Counterpunch and many others.

Antony contributed a major chapter to 2004's best-seller, Not Happy, John! on the Hanan Ashrawi affair. His book on the Israel/Palestine conflict, My Israel Question, is released by Melbourne University Publishing.

He writes regularly for online magazines New Matilda and Crikey and is a board member of Macquarie University's Centre for Middle East and North African Studies. He is an Honorary Associate at Macquarie University's Department of Politics and International Relations. Antony appears regularly on radio, TV, in public and at universities discussing current affairs and politics.

Website: www.antonyloewenstein.com

the festival for thinkers